

Message

Dear colleagues and students,

I bring to you warm greetings. I have always believed that the hallmark of a good student is perseverance, striving to be always better than what one was yesterday. A good clinician remains a student forever, perpetually trying to gain deeper insight into various fields. Unto that end, a journal provides a wonderful medium.

World journal of dentistry is indeed a novel venture in the publishing world. It is bringing together a number of national and international think tanks on its advisory/editorial board whose expertise in their respective fields will surely reflect in the quality of this journal. It is an official publication of International association of general dentistry, which was born out of the need for sharing knowledge on a larger platform across the globe. Published by Jaypee Brothers Medical Publishers, I expect its illustration and print quality to be on par with other international journals.

Easy accessibility of the published articles over the internet will help both the students and the clinicians in assimilating comprehensive information in various fields of dentistry. In today's fast paced world one must keep abreast with the current innovations and researches happening in the scientific world. A good peer reviewed journal can make this possible and I expect this journal to meet those standards.

I wish its working team all the best.

Clinical Editor

Prof Dr Marco Ferrari

MD DDS PHD

Dean, School of Dental Medicine

Professor and Chair, Department of Fixed Prosthodontics and Dental Materials, University of Siena, Italy